This is a gala week for Milwaukee.

There is ample evidence that the favorite southeastern democratic source of "regio demotion" will fail to work in Virginia this year.

Official advice received at the State Department in Washington, announce the collapse of the revolution in Haiti by the surrender of Legitimé's force at Port-au-Prince. Hippolyte army entered the capital and Legitimé's went on board a merchant vessel bound for France.

Ex-Congressman W. L. Scott, democratic chief, chairman of the democratic finance committee in the presidential campaign of 1883, and one of the authors of the Miller bill, owns 40,000 acres of Illinois coal lands, and his coal miners are on a strike. The strike seems to be republican labor against a democratic coal baron.

Thomas G. Shearman figures that 21,000 persons now possess three-fifths of the whole national wealth, real and personal. He estimates that there are in the United States two hundred persons who have $20,000,000; 400 who have $10,000,000; 1,000 who have $5,000,000; 2,500 who have $2,500,000; 7,000 who have $1,000,000, and 20,000 who have $500,000 each.

The New York Tribune: In the course of his recent speech at the Ashfield dinner Joseph H. Choate told a story of a dying miner whose doctor advised him to call a clergyman. "What do I want of a clergyman?" said the miner: "I never voted the democratic ticket in my life." George William Curtis sat near Mr. Choate, but it is not stated what sort of an expression passed over his face while Mr. Choate was paying this beautiful tribute to a party for which Mr. Curtis has done so much.

Preliminary steps have been taken by W. H. Jacobs to wrest from the Wisconsin Central Railway, Section 33, near Hurley, where the Montreal and other iron mines are located. He claims that the section is outside the twenty-mile indemnity limit, where the road had a right to go and make up deficiencies in the land grant, and he has claimed possession of the land under the soldier strip entry. His father is a millionaire and has engaged ex-Secretary William F. Vilas as one of his attorneys. The property is worth $3,000,000, and a great legal fight may be expected.

The inhabitants of Moscow, the Ohio village in which diphtheria is now ravaging have learned a very costly lesson. The compensation is that they have learned it thoroughly and will not soon be subjected again to similar grief and terror. The village is well situated and ought to be conspicuously healthy, but ignorance or indifference has permitted a long accumulation of odious deposits, which have poisoned the air and presumably the water. A thorough work of cleaning and disinfection is now reported to be under way, and more cheerful news may be expected immediately.

The Lutheran Observer, of Philadelphia, was on the side of prohibition during the late contest over that issue in Pennsylvania. But concerning the Brooks' high taxation liquor law, which the republican party placed upon the statute book of the Keystone State, the Observer frankly says: "The Brooks' law is the best liquor law we ever had in Pennsylvania; and wherever it is strictly enforced it has resulted in greatly lessening the evils of the drink traffic. It has closed about 4,500 saloons in Philadelphia and several thousand more in Pittsburgh and other counties of the State; and we think it is safe to say that this is more than any prohibitory amendment or law, either in Maine, Iowa, or Kansas, ever did within the same time."

A Pittsburgh dispatch says a combination of eastern capitalists has been formed to purchase all the coal property along the Monongahela river and control the river coal business. There is scarcely a doubt that the deal will go through. Several quiet meetings of the heavy operators have been held lately and nine of the largest concerns have placed prices on their plants. It has been decided that it will require $13,000,000 to swing the deal, including the aggregate of stock the sellers are willing to take. The heaviest firms which have given options are Wadsworth & Co., Brown & Sons, Thomas Fawcett & Sons, John A. Wood & Co., Grand Lake Company, Horn & Roberts, George Lytle & Sons, and Brantley & Wilcox. It is estimated that the combination will have $250,000 a year in the expenses of shipping and mining the coal. William F. Shinn, of New York, it is said, is to be the president of the new company, with headquarters in New York.

Cincinnati Commercial: It has been remarked of the Eiffel tower that as a specimen of engineering it is simply a variation from the ordinary method of iron bridge building. The American engineers who visited France, England and Scotland a few weeks ago, greatly admired the Eiffel, but regarded the bridge in course of construction across the Fifth of Fort as far more remarkable. They do not consider it a marvelous thing to erect an iron tower 300 meters in height. It reposes perpendicularly upon firm foundations, and the weight of the material is easily sustained. It is a far more phenomenal performance to build out on the cantilever plan a structure extending, unsupported by false work, for a thousand feet over an arm of the sea. That was the wonder our engineers witnessed in Scotland, and it was immensely more impressive than the simple iron edifice, notable chiefly for its perfection of details and colossal proportions, that is the leading attraction of the French exposition.

Henry Shaw, the philanthropist, whose name is revered by all St. Louisians, died on Sunday in St. Louis. Mr. Shaw was ninety years old. He was born in England in 1799 and arrived in St. Louis May 4, 1890. He established a hardware business and in 1840 retired with a fortune. Then he invested heavily in real estate and made several million dollars. He went abroad in 1840 and visited every quarter of the globe, remaining away ten years. He made a study of botany, and on his return began the collection of plants which a decade later, resulted in the creation of Shaw's gardens in the western suburbs. These gardens have the best collection of plants and flowers in America and are only approached by two in Europe. Mr. Shaw threw the garden open to the public and they are as much of a resort as a city park. They now become the property of the city. He also gave to the city the beautiful Tower Grove Park, and erected in it bronze statues of Shakespeare and Humboldt that are marvels of art. Mr. Shaw's tomb stands in the gardens. He was a bachelor, without relatives, and his vast wealth went to a few personal friends and the city.

A Disease Which Has Afflicted Man from the Prehistoric Period.

This tiresome disease is sometimes looked upon as a penalty for the luxurious living of comparatively modern days, but as a matter of fact it has afflicted man from the earliest times. Says All the Year Round:

"Not long ago a mummy was unwound in Egypt which was shown by inscriptions to be the mortal remains of one of the Pharaohs, and the knotted fingers proved incontrovertibly that this monarch—who reigned 3,000 years ago—was a victim to gout."

The Romans knew from several passages in their literature were no strangers to its attacks, and in their case as in ours it was largely attributed to high living. A curious fact in connection with gout in the days of the Caesars is that it is said to have then found its victims chiefly among the weaker sex, who nowadays are comparatively free from it. The writings of Galen, Hippocrates and other Greek physicians show that gout was as common in ancient Greece as in our great Latin rival. Galen said of it that it was a distemper which none but the gods could cure—an opinion that must be shared by many sufferers who have tried in vain to obtain relief from its twinges.

The doctor who deserves the monument as high as St. Paul's, as wide as the Thames, and as enduring as time—whose Dr. Johnson declared awaited him who found a cure for the gout—is still to come, for though its attacks may not be modified by regulating the diet and taking abundant exercise, no one has yet been able to prove himself a master of the art of healing this most difficult of the many difficult diseases to which flesh is heir.

The variety of the remedies recommended for a complaint is a safe index of its susceptibility to treatment; and at one time or another the doctors have professed themselves to be believers in almost every conceivable method of neutralizing the effects of this one. It has been attacked with acids, alkalies, with fire and water, cauterization having been once the favorite form of remedy for it, as "aqua pura" was in the early days of the present century.

Dr. Sydenham, the renowned English physician of the seventeenth century, who knew by painful experience what gout was, declared it to be a disease of the blood, which destroys more rich men than poor men, more men of great intellect than men of ordinary capacity and understanding. He says: "Great kings, emperors, generals, admirals, and philosophers have all died of gout. Hereby nature shows her impartiality, since those whom she favors in one way she afflicts in another."

MR. DREXEL'S LAUDABLE PLAN.

He Proposes to Found an Industrial School for 2,000 Men and Women.

The Philadelphia Public Ledger a few days ago had the following: "In order to correct erroneous impressions about the Drexel industrial institute which it was intended to establish at Wayne, near Philadelphia, it is thought advisable to make a brief statement, giving the original purpose of A. J. Drexel, with a review of the circumstances which have led to the establishment of the institute. His first thought was to establish an industrial college for girls, in which they should be trained in such a way as to help them to employment and occupation in which they could earn a liberal living. Accommodations and facilities for housing, boarding, and training about 200 girls were to be furnished. To this end land and buildings were purchased at Wayne, and architectural plans prepared by competent architects. It was thought the contemplated institution might also accommodate about 400 or 500 more girls who could get to the school during the day, get their luncheon there, and get back to their own homes in the evening.

"After deliberation it was found that this scheme had several drawbacks, the chief of which was the withdrawal of the girls from home influence, together with the belief that the sphere of usefulness of such an institution might be very greatly enlarged by the adoption of another plan, abandoning the idea of boarding the girls, and establishing the institute within the city limits.

"It is now the purpose of Mr. Drexel to provide funds to purchase lands and construct buildings for the maintenance of a full corps of instructors for an industrial institute for young men and young women, who will accommodate for their instruction and training, as many as 1,000 girls in the daytime and 1,000 boys at night. The facilities and instructions to be provided for this school are to be free of any and all cost to its students forever—that is, so far as the provision of ample funds and business foresight can assure. The working operations of the college will probably be somewhat similar to those of the Cooper institute in New York."

MILWAUKEE BESIEGED.

THE CREAM CITY IN THE HANDS OF THE "YANKS."

An Army of Two Hundred Thousand Encamped in Wisconsin's Chief Town.—An Unconditional Surrender.

Union Forces Take Possession of the Place, the Inhabitants Graciously Capitulating to the Superior Numbers.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 27.—Men are pouring into Milwaukee like flies into a styrag. After they once get in it would be just as hard on them as on the flies should they attempt to get out. It is an irresistible torrent of people. It is like an army swarming over breastworks that have but recently been deserted. They are coming in organized companies, in well drilled regiments, and in disorderly mobs of individual visitors.

Such an invasion has never before been seen in Milwaukee. Trains at the Northwestern and the union depots have arrived about every twenty minutes all day, and even the railway officials were astonished by the crowd. The great bulk of the visitors marched out to the big camps three or four miles from the business center of the city.

The women and children marched along, too, in long lines. There was a great disorganized procession streaming up Grand avenue. From 7,000 to 80,000 strangers arrived Monday between Sunday and Tuesday night. It was a grand stampede and a grove of Texas cattle could not have squeezed it. The big camps are populated and at night are ablaze with campfires and the hum of the songs of the men who marched away from the North so gayly over twenty years ago and who trudged back so grimly four years later. It is a grand reunion and no mistake.

The veterans who wear the blue clothes, the slouch hats, and the modest gold braids in Milwaukee are truly veterans in years as well as experience. Some of them are so old and feeble that we of the bustling present and not of the tottering past can scarce imagine that these men marched forty miles a day, lived on hard-tack and bacon, and "totaled" a Springfield musket as well as shot it, with a steady hand and keen eye.

If the camps can be said to be full, what may be said of the hotels? They are simply jammed, and in the Plankinton, Kirby, and Republic it was so crowded that a kid glove couldn't have been squeezed into some of the rooms. There are thousands of strangers who are searching for lodgings and houses are being thrown open on every side, and in some instances barns are being turned into dormitories.

Gen. Alger's Chances.

Gen. Alger appears to be in the lead for the race now for commander-in-chief, but unless he can get the unanimous support of his State delegation his chances for election are hurt. The cause of the defection is just this: When the State department held its annual encampment in Milwaukee, the Grand Army of the Republic urged the presentation of the name of Dr. Cyril P. Brown of Grand Haven for the position of surgeon-general in chief of the national department, Grand Army of the Republic, at the next national encampment, which is now being held, and pledging the delegates to vote and work to secure his election.

This resolution was adopted by unanimous vote and amid great applause. Gen. Alger at that time was not thought of in connection with any Grand Army of the Republic office, but has allowed his name to be brought forward since, and the delegates who are pledged to stand by Dr. Brown are in a quandary. They don't know exactly what to do. They know that there would be more honor to the State in the election of one of her sons to the chief office of the great organization, but they do not like to go back on their pledge, made from the election of Dr. Surgeon-General the Michigan delegates want the encampment for 1890 to go to Detroit. They think they can get it with the unanimous vote, but are absolutely sure that they cannot if Alger is elected chief. This furnishes another incentive to them to "kick on him" and bolsters them up in their determination to stand by Brown and the key City resolution.

Both Dr. Brown and Gen. Alger are in the city, but neither will discuss the question. A caucus of Michigan men will be held in the Michigan headquarters to try and contrive some way out of the middle which will result in harmony and general satisfaction.

Eastern delegates are doing their utmost to pour oil on the troubled waters and make easy the way for Alger to the place now held by Major Warner. Their object is to spoil Detroit's chances for the encampment and narrow the fight down to Boston, New York, and Washington. Pittsburg, W. Va., and Philadelphia also want it, but their chances are scarcely considered. The Eastern men seem to lose sight of the fact that the Southern delegates want the encampment held in Memphis, Little Rock, or Atlanta, and thinking that Detroit's aspirations in this direction may easily be smothered, are doing their utmost to defeat Alger and select an Eastern man as commander.

It was 10 o'clock Monday morning when the special train carrying Commander-in-Chief Warner and staff pulled into the union depot. There were thousands to greet him, both friends and visitors from afar. The march, with the Blair post of St. Louis in the lead, with a drum corps and band, was made to the Plankinton house, where the commander has his quarters. He was accompanied by his staff, as follows: Judge-Advocate General J. B. Johnson, Assistant Adjutant-General E. G. Granville, Aide-de-Camp Brann, Rogers, Ewald, Smith, Artell, Kidwell, Greenman, Yeaton, Gaston, and Jenks. A. J. McCoy, past commander department of Wisconsin, and several others from St. Louis and Chicago posts were in the party. Halting in front of the Plankinton, Blair post gave three hearty cheers and passed on, while veterans from the sidewalk soon put a stop to traffic on the thoroughfare by surrounding the chief. He was heartily greeted. To a reporter Warner said: "No, sir; I am not going to resign. I am not going to resign. I am not going to resign. That is definitely settled in my mind."

"Have you any preference among the candidates?"

"None whatever."

"Old Tecumseh's" Welcome.

Gen. Sherman arrived in the midst of a blare of trumpets and the beating of drums. His welcome was a cordial one, and the grizzled old warrior got a reception which made his heart glad. With his innate modesty he had sought to get into the city unobserved at an unseasonable hour in the night, but his "bummers" captured him and carried him off. "Uncle Billy" was surprised for once, and the veterans enjoyed his discomfiture. It was not long, however, before the (entente) cordiale was established and the old hero submitted to the blandishments of those who had marched to the sea with him. A shower of bouquets covered Gen. Sherman as he alighted from his carriage at the Plankinton house, and one of them the General graciously presented to the daughter of

THE CRONIN MURDER CASE

OPENING OF THE TRIAL OF THE SUSPECTS.

Argument for a Change of Venue and for Separate Trials. The Criminal Record.

CRONIN, Aug. 27.—The first real skirmish in the great legal battle which will precede the trial of the two men accused of the murder of Dr. Cronin began Monday with a determined effort on the part of the defense to break the solidarity of the prosecution. Attorneys representing O'Sullivan, Coughlin, and Burke last week filed motions for separate trials for their clients, and many arguments on these motions were begun before Judge McConnell. Donahoe & David asked for a trial of O'Sullivan separately and apart from Burke and Coughlin. W. S. Forrest wanted Coughlin tried without being prejudiced by being a co-defendant with any of the others, and Senator Kennedy urged that Burke would be injured if the evidence against O'Sullivan and Coughlin were permitted to go to a jury as against him also.

The work Monday was the reading of affidavits and making arguments in support of these motions. The six defendants were brought in and given seats in the front row of the jury box. The motions were read by the court. The defense attorneys, O'Sullivan, Burke, and Coughlin, were all dressed in black, and the court was well-dressed, and most of them looked superior to the usual prisoners arraigned for murder.

Mr. Donahoe read an application for an order of court on Judge Longenecker for a copy of the evidence taken before the grand jury affecting Burke, and to the names of the witnesses whose testimony Burke was indicted. In support of this application an affidavit by Burke was read in which he denied having any knowledge of the murder of Dr. Cronin, and that he did not know any of his co-defendants. It was also alleged that Burke was locked up in two different police stations, and that the State's attorney visited Burke at the jail and told him that he was locked up only as a witness, and that "he was all right," and that the State's attorney would "get him out of this in a few days," and that he knew about Coughlin and Burke and the Cronin matter, but that he knew nothing about it.

No evidence at the coroner's inquest alluded to Burke, and having no preliminary hearing before an examining magistrate he had no idea of what evidence against him was heard. Therefore he asked an order of the court that the State's attorney either give Burke a copy of the testimony taken before the grand jury, or allow him or his attorneys to inspect it, especially as Judge Longenecker refused to tell Burke who the witnesses were.

Replying to these motions, Judge Longenecker asked for a week's delay in which to prepare for their argument. This delay was strongly opposed by counsel for all the prisoners, and Judge McConnell said that he would grant the delay if the motions should be argued. It is not thought probable the motions will be granted.

SHOT BY A STAGE ROBBER.

A. C. Fleischman Mortally and D. Mackerech Badly Hurt in Michigan.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Aug. 27.—Black Bart's most daring deed in the mountain passes of California and Colorado have been outdone by a lone highwayman, who held up and robbed the stage running between Gogebic, on the St. Ignace, and the Michigan and Gogebic Lake, a summer festival where people from the large cities spend their days.

As the stage was running along at a lively gait through a dense forest, about two miles from the station, a man jumped out in front of it, and pointing two big revolvers at the stage, commanded the driver to stop. The driver, who was in good old Western style, commanded him to stop, and the man, who was in good old Western style, commanded him to stop, and the man, who was in good old Western style, commanded him to stop.

One of the passengers went down in his pocket, but instead of bringing up his pocketbook he clutched a pistol in his hand and began firing at the robber. The desperado immediately returned the fire, and although the driver whipped the horses into a mad gallop, his aim was true. D. Mackerech, a bookkeeper in the First National bank of Minneapolis, receiving the first bullet in his chest, while a second whistled through his leg.

Another passenger, named A. C. Fleischman of Belleville, Ill., was mortally wounded. He was up in the seat as the horses were whipped away just in time to receive a bullet in the hip. He fell forward and pitched over the side of the coach into the roadway. The horses continued to run and the wounded man was left to take his chances with the robber. The villain threatened at first to kill him, but finally desisted after seeing $57 and his victim's watch and chain.

The wounded man lay bleeding in the road for three hours before any one courageous enough to go to his succor was found. He was taken to the hospital at Bessmer, but the loss of blood was so great as to blight all hopes of recovery. Mackerech was taken to Eagle River for treatment and from there to his home at Minneapolis. There are grave doubts as to his recovery also.

There were two passengers on the coach, and neither of them were molested. They were William Padden of 157 Washington street, Chicago, and Robert Riolout of the Bank of Montreal, Chicago. The party was out on a fishing trip, and was composed of six men and a woman.

A description of the robber tallies to the letter with that of the daring freebooter who went through a Northwestern train near Elmhurst some time ago. Sheriff Dave Foley of Bessmer at once organized a posse of a dozen men and has gone in pursuit. The chances for capture are very slim.

PLOT OF JACKSON CONVICTS.

Irving Latimer at the Head of a Scheme to Blow Up the State Prison.

JACKSON, Mich., Aug. 27.—A great sensation has been unarcted at the State prison. The matricide, Irving Latimer, has been detected in a plot to blow up the prison, and a quantity of explosive powder has been found within the prison walls, where it was thrown by outside parties. Warden Batch refused to give the details, and wants to keep the matter quiet so that he may catch Latimer's outside accomplices. From other reliable sources it is learned that old prisoners have made use of Latimer's money and secured outside influence to execute the scheme, which would be entirely successful, have destroyed the prison and let 800 convicts loose. This scheme has been contemplated for the last year and did not originate with Latimer.

Be Merciful to Yourself.

And heed the appeals for assistance put forth by your liver, when the organ is out of order. Among these are distress in the right side and through the right shoulder blade, yellowness of the skin and eyeballs, tired tongue, loss of breath, sick headache, and above all, irregularity of the bowels. The mere yellowing of the sclerotic is a wise warning shown by a prompt course of medicine with Dr. Carter's Little Liver Pills. Bitters, most genial of alteratives, and the hepato-glandular reciprocates the deserved attention by resuming its secretory functions actively and regularly. Among the accompanying good results are renewed digestion, freedom from headaches, all bilious symptoms disappear, and appetite and sleep improve. Ben-dolent are the effects of the Bitters in malarial disease, kidney disorder, rheumatic ailment and nervousness.

Beeman's Pills act like magic on a weak stomach.

Those UNHAPPY PERSONS who suffer from nervousness and dyspepsia should use Carter's Little Liver Pills, which are made expressly for sleepless, nervous, dyspeptic suffer. Price 25 cents.

AN EXTRA SESSION CERTAIN.

Congressman Owen Believes That It Will Be Called About Nov. 1.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Congressman Owen of Indiana has arrived in Washington and was asked for his views upon the chances for an extra session of Congress. He is one of the three Republicans from Indiana who will occupy seats in the next House whose views carry more weight than those of members from other States who are not so intimate with the President.

"I have had no direct assurance from the President that he intends to call Congress together before December," said Mr. Owen, "but the last time that I was here was some time ago, and the subject, which led me to believe that it is the intention of the President to issue a call. We were talking of the work to be done and Gen. Harrison expressed the opinion that if Congress should not meet in the regular session in December, the result would be that the House would scarcely be organized and ready for business until after the middle of January. I believe that the date will be between Oct. 20 and the end of the first week in November."

Veterans and the Civil Service.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—The postmaster at Indianapolis and the local civil-service board having failed to agree upon the rules relating to the appointment of old soldiers, the subject was referred to the civil-service commissioners. President Lyman in his reply declares that the rule limiting the appointment of carriers to applicants under 40 does not apply to persons honorably discharged from the army or navy by reason of disability resulting from wounds or sickness incurred in the line of duty.

Capital Notes.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Many lawyers of prominence in this section are expected to attend the meeting of the National Bar association in Chicago this week.

An examination will be held next Friday at the civil service commission rooms of applicants for the position of pomological clerk in the agricultural department.

DESERTING SPRING VALLEY.

Mr. Scott Orders Preparations for a General Shut-Down.

SPRING VALLEY, Ill., Aug. 27.—Mr. Scott of Pennsylvania has telegraphed General Manager Devlin to discharge all employees of the Spring Valley Coal company who were not absolutely needed to run the mines, and to prepare for a general shut-down of six months or a year. He says they will never be opened again if they cannot be opened on a paying basis. This means the depopulation of the town.

Many of the miners have already left the town for southern Illinois and other points, and the remainder will leave during the next few weeks. They will be followed by the merchants, who are seriously disgusted with the situation. A call for fifty miners to work for the Consolidated Coal company of southern Illinois was made here to-day. It is said that Jay Gould owns large interests in these mines, and if that is true, the miners at this season of the year it is prime-facie evidence that they are making money at the expense of the northern miners, and if that is true, the northern railroad has closed down its Spring Valley branch and discharged all men at this end of the line.

THE STRIKE SPREADING.

Thousands of Sympathizers Joining the London Dock Laborers.

LONDON, Aug. 27.—The strike of dock laborers is gaining new adherents hourly, and there is talk of compelling laborers in all the trades to quit work, by no violence has been attempted. To-day the strikers were joined by 7,000 Thames river workers and gas stokers, and by the tinplate makers of Harmondsworth, a suburb of London. Eight thousand sailors, men and 2,000 dockmen at Isle of Dogs, where several large docks are located, have gone on strike, as have also the coal porters at all the London docks. The business is completely paralyzed, and mail steamers are leaving without cargoes. A conference took place between the dock managers and delegates from the

—There was a good attendance and everything passed off merrily. Smith & Anderson furnished the music.

—Milo Thayer is surely an artist. Both in the window and interior decorations of the Fountain cigar store he shows his taste. The goods handled at this store are the best, and our people can do no better than to give them a call.

—People keep going to Milwaukee. To-day's trains have been crowded with pilgrims to the Orem City. Many of the Janesville people went in yesterday to avoid the rush, but the rush was about as great yesterday as it was to-day.

—People who desire to see the naval battle in Milwaukee and get back the same night will be accommodated by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway.

Raymond, proprietor of the New York Bargain Store, desires all to understand that he is permanently located in Janesville for the purpose of doing a straightforward and legitimate business in his line. —On recognition day at Chautauqua, Mrs. B. F. Crockett graduated in a class of four hundred and fifty, receiving ten seals, only one member of this large class receiving more. —The Northwestern railway company will hold their special Janesville train in Milwaukee on Thursday evening until the great naval battle is entirely finished. This battle will take place directly in front of the Northwestern passenger depot. This arrangement will give the Northwestern passengers an opportunity of witnessing the scene, and at the same time save them a hurried walk of a mile to make other trains whose depots are not so advantageously situated. Take the Northwestern route.

—There was fun in abundance at Lappin's Opera House last evening. Matt Kusel and his original "Bad Boy and His Girl Company" were the attraction, and it drew a very fair sized audience. The company carries a very good orchestra with them, and the Italian orchestra is exceptionally good, the two gentlemen from sunny Italy manipulating the harps in such a way as to produce the sweetest music. The play itself is somewhat aged, and gives an opportunity to introduce lots of dancing and "gags." Some of the dancing was very fair, but most of the gags were very old. Matt Kusel as Shultz did some very fair work.

—Andrew Paul Waterman, the three-year-old child of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Waterman, of the town of Rock, died last evening about five o'clock. Andrew was three years old last May. He was a bright and winsome child, the delight of his parents' hearts; yet an All-wise Father has seen fit to take him home to the heavenly rest, and parents and friends are left to mourn. The sympathy of the many friends of the bereaved ones is extended to them in the hour of their sorrow. Funeral services will be held Wednesday morning at ten o'clock at the home, after which all that was mortal of little Andrew will be taken to Milton and tenderly laid at rest.

—The editor of the Recorder must have had the Search murder case in his mind this morning when he charged the city editor of the Gazette with the authorship of the postoffice correspondence in Monday's Chicago Herald. Had his mind been clear he would not have fumbled his pen by voicing such a falsehood, knowing, as he did, that a special correspondent of the Herald visited this city for the express purpose of writing the article. While Mr. Spencer is not ashamed to father the sentiments expressed in that letter, he is free to say that he had nothing whatever to do with it; that he did not know what course the special correspondent—Mr. Clover—would take, and did not exchange twenty words with him while in the city. Proceed with your next statement, Mr. Recorder.
